ANNE FRANK

Anne Frank was one of the more than one million Jewish children in Europe who died in the Holocaust. Born in Germany in 1929, she fled to Amsterdam with her family soon after Adolf Hitler came to power.

In May 1940, German troops invaded the Netherlands. The following year, Anne was forced to leave her school to attend a Jewish one. Soon thereafter, the Frank family began making preparations to go into hiding. In May 1942, Anne, along with the other Jews in the Netherlands, was required to wear a yellow Star of David.

That summer, the deportations of Dutch Jews to German-occupied Poland began. On July 5, Anne's sister Margot received a summons to report for "labor." The following day, the Frank family went into hiding. For more than two years, they lived with four friends in a secret annex behind her father's company warehouse at 263 Prinsengracht. German and Dutch security police, using information provided by an informer, raided the building and arrested the inhabitants on August 4, 1944.

August 4, 1944 .
The Franks were sent to the Westerbork transit camp and from there deported to Auschwitz on September 3. Less than two months later, Anne and Margot were transported to the Bergen-Belsen concentration camp in Germany.
Anne's mother, Edith, perished at Auschwitz in January 1945.
In March, Anne and Margot died from typhus at Bergen-Belsen, just weeks before the British army liberated the camp.
Of the eight persons who hid in the secret annex, only Anne's father, Otto, survived.

THE DIARY

ine Frank is best remembered for the diary she kept. Discovered in the annex after the family's arrest, it reveals the inner life of a young girl growing up in constant danger of capture and deportation. On July 15, 1944, Anne wrote:

That's the difficulty in these times: ideals, dreams, and cherished hopes rise within us, only to meet the horrible truth and be shattered. It's really a wonder that I haven't dropped all my ideals, because they seem so absurd and impossible to carry out. Yet I keep them, because in spite of everything people are really good at heart. I simply can't build myself up on the ruins of other people. Living without a conscience is impossible. Living without faith, without hope, without love, without God, without a goal is impossible. I am still a little bit of a dreamer. I still have a great potential.

For more than two years, the Frank family hid from German and Dutch police in an annex behind this house at 263 Prinsengracht in Amsterdam. Gestapo agents found the refuge on August 4, 1944. Anne Frank Stichting, Amsterdam, Netherlands

Not even Lucifer could possibly have created a hell worse than this.

Can you picture a grate . . . piled high with 3,000 corpses of people who had been alive only a short time before?

As you look at their faces it seems as if at any moment these bodies might awaken from their deep sleep. But at a given signal a giant torch is lit and it burns with a huge flame.
